FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Accu-Time Systems, Inc. Announces Launch of Redesigned Website.

Accu-Time Systems (ATS), a leading manufacturer of Workforce Management, Time and Attendance, and Data Collection devices, is pleased to announce the launch of its redesigned website at www.accu-time.com.

Peter DiMaria, founder and CEO of ATS, states “The redesigned website allows visitors to quickly gain access to information about our products, our company, and our exciting new product offerings.”

The new website will retain the wealth of product and technical information traditionally provided by ATS. DiMaria adds, “The intent of the redesign was to continue offering our customers the same extensive product and technical documentation they have come to expect, with a more logical and user-friendly interface.”

Michael Glynn, corporate marketing manager for ATS, explains the benefits to existing and potential partners and customers: “The ATS Partner log-in feature has been praised by our partners and customers because it allows them access to a secure password-protected area that contains information, documents, and files as chosen by the user, which is dynamically updated by ATS.” Examples of files and documents that can be stored in the secure Partner area include contracts, proprietary manuals, user download files, and updated software releases, among others.

The redesigned site is an important component of ATS plans for 2006. According to Glynn, “The website will also serve as an attractive focus point for several new and exciting product launches ATS has planned for 2006 – The first of which, OPTIMUS™, will take place on January 3rd.”
